The price of wheat for January delivery rose 1.6 per cent to $US4.29 a bushel (123.6 cents a pound) on the Sydney market on Monday, following a weaker Australian dollar. This followed a lift in London wheat, which was up one per cent to $US7.85 a bushel (218.7 cents a pound). While that helped Australian wheat to mostly remain at or near their recent lows, prices for South African and Argentine wheat are up sharply on expectations of plentiful harvests there. The US Department of Agriculture last week said it would buy 50.6 million bushels of wheat at a time it said was the largest level since World War II. Australian bran wheat is due to be the third-largest exporter of wheat behind the US and Argentina, making it more exposed to the global commodity market than most other producers. The Australian dollar has fallen more than 10 per cent over the past year as worries about trade and China's slowing economy pushed investors into holdings of higher-
