two functions with pointer to same cuda kernel I am having problem with the following code in cuda. I am calling the two functions with the same cuda kernel. I need the input and output of the functions to be same. It is required that the kernel is created with large amount of threads so a vector of functions is not a solution. I am calling the function like this. { CudaKernel>>(perMat1(input1, kernel1), perMat1(input2, kernel1), size, kernel2); } { CudaKernel>>(perMat1(input1,

kernel1), perMat1(input2, kernel2), size, kernel1); } kernel1 and kernel2 are both vecMatrix parameterized by size. A: This is expected behavior. There are multiple examples at the CudaDocs If you look at the code in // Note kernel2 is the default parameter to // the kernel constexpr __global__ void perMat1(Vec3f* vec1, Vec3f* vec2, size_t size, Vec3f kernel) you can see that
